The project is all about designing and developing banking system database. The database includes a simplified banking system which only involves some of the banking system (a huge industry) activities such as loan, account, and customer services. It also demonstrates how these services are interacted. The project includes database designing using ER_Assistance, Creating Database objects using MS Management Studio, organizing and relating data tables using DML methods.